

Dear potential partners

Announcement of the president

Tokyo-based content developer Jam Systems, Inc. is looking for investors and business partners/licensees to help market our products worldwide.

In the Internet Era, English is the port of civilization and knowledge worldwide. We are proud to specialize in the development of quality English-language education software for digital platforms and analog migration.

More than 10 patents and many registered trademarks show our power of development.

We at Jam Systems Inc. are super-enthusiastic regarding our near-future plans to issue an initial public offering in order to develop and market our English tutorial software worldwide.

We will commit strongly to our partners and to the future success of our projects.

We look forward to your inquiries and your advice would be highly appreciated. For further information, please contact us at your convenience via e-mail or telephone.

Sincerely yours,

Yoshifumi Saeki
